Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck reported $5,350,000 for second-quarter federal lobbying revenues.

“This year alone we have signed 16 new federal lobbying clients, 12 last quarter and four more in Q2,” said Al Mottur, managing partner of Brownstein’s Washington, DC office. “Our client roster continues to diversify in key categories including energy, immigration and health care. We’re performing strong in this post-election cycle and are strategically positioned to continue this growth throughout the remainder of 2013.”
