

Brownstein Continues Growth Trend In Federal Lobbying Revenues

Jul 19, 2010

Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck continues to have solid growth in its federal lobbying practice reporting 2010 mid-year revenues of $11,845,000.

“Our work in the areas of financial services and energy continues to grow – areas where we repeatedly demonstrate results for our clients based on our substantive expertise and relationships,” said Al Mottur, managing partner for Brownstein’s Washington, D.C., office.

Brownstein’s 2010 second quarter revenue of $6,040,000 is up over the firm’s federal lobbying revenue in first quarter of $5,805,000. Additional numbers of note:

- 2009 Total lobbying revenue: $23,545,000
- 2009 Mid-Year lobbying revenue: $9,180,000
- 2009 Second quarter lobbying revenue: $5,420,000

The numbers for the first quarter of 2010 were filed on July 20 as part of the quarterly filing requirements under the federal Lobbying Disclosure Act.
