

Washington, D.C., Federal Government Relations
McCain Funeral a Clarion Call for a More Perfect Union
Sep 07, 2018

Article

Author, The Hill, September 7, 2018

On a world stage befitting the ideals of our Republic, Americans of all stripes who hunger for human decency fed their political soul for at least a few hours.

Words and accolades delivered in memory of a strong, humble, and heroic American came at a moment that Sen. John McCain knew too well our country needed most. The selfless public servant exemplified what is great about America: grit, humility, drive, honesty, compassion. He stood firm for what he believed in, but his resolve for the truth and his desire to find the path to compromise was his true strength. For some, it was a sign of weakness. But a true measure of a patriot is not love of party but duty to country.

Click here to read the entire op-ed, published in The Hill.

Meet The Team

Nadeam A. Elshami

Policy Director

T 202.383.4426

nelshami@bhfs.com

Related Practices

- Government Relations