

The Hill: Big Bucks for K St.

Jan 21, 2010

Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck was one of at least 19 firms that reported growth in their lobbying revenue from 2008 to 2009, and ranked on K Street's Top 25 Lobbying Shops in 2009 list. Al Mottur, managing partner of Brownstein's Washington, DC office, commented on the revenue gains in 2009.

"You had an uptick from the business community in general that was concerned by the Obama administration and significant Democratic majorities in both houses of Congress," said Al Mottur, managing partner of Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck. "That is probably why you see so many firms showing increases this year."
