

Brownstein Named Health Care Law Firm of the Year in New Mexico By Corporate INTL

Jan 14, 2016

Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck's Albuquerque office was named the Health Care Law Firm of the Year in New Mexico by Corporate INTL Magazine. This recognition commemorates leading firms in their chosen specialties throughout the world, encompassing successes over the past 12 months and excellence not only in expertise but in service.

"This award is a recognition of the strength of Brownstein's multi-disciplinary health care team throughout the firm," said Eric Burris, the Albuquerque office managing partner and co-chair of Brownstein's Litigation Department.

Brownstein's Health Care Group is a cohesive team of experienced litigators, transactional attorneys and regulatory and government relations professionals with extensive industry and regulatory knowledge.

Corporate INTL honorees are chosen through an independent research and editorial process that focuses on service type, service range, business type, geographical location, how the business operates and the expertise each team offers. A shortlist of five firms is reviewed by an independent awards panel in each country with the eventual winners chosen by that independent panel. This recognition will appear in Corporate INTL Magazine and online at www.corp-intl.com.
