

Cyber Challenges in the Gaming Industry: For the House to Win, It Can't Gamble on Cybersecurity
Oct 01, 2017

Article

Co-author, Nevada Business Journal, October 1, 2017

With large troves of sensitive consumer financial data and more cash transactions per minute than some of the world's largest banks, today's gaming and casino institutions are ideal targets for cybercriminals seeking hefty payouts. Casinos also have to guard multiple points of entry, from on-site stores, restaurants, entertainment venues, ATMs and point-of-sale (POS) systems, to consumer-facing online websites and mobile apps and internal email servers, systems and networks.

Click here to read the entire article published in Nevada Business Journal.

Related Practices

- Gaming
- Privacy & Cybersecurity