

Tal Diamant Appointed to Colorado Agency for Jewish Education Board of Directors

Dec 07, 2009

Tal Diamant, shareholder at the law firm of Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck, was recently named to the Colorado Agency for Jewish Education (CAJE) Board of Directors. As a board member, Diamant will aid in the strategic development of programs and initiatives for the organization, as well as perform customary board duties.

Charged since 1971 with advocating for Jewish education in all of its forms, filling gaps in the educational system by creating and sustaining new programs and services, and centralizing services and programs for increased efficiency, CAJE serves as both community implementer and innovator. Entirely supported by program fees and community philanthropy, CAJE is Colorado's advocate for Jewish education in all its forms. For more information, visit www.caje-co.org.
