

Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck Announces First Quarter Federal Lobbying Revenues

Apr 19, 2012

Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck reports a first quarter federal lobbying revenue of $5,590,000, a 6 percent increase over first quarter 2011 revenue.

“We’ve started 2012 with a strong push, signing a dozen new clients in the first quarter,” said Al Mottur, managing partner of Brownstein’s Washington, DC, office. “Several of our recent registrations, such as Sony Corp., NASDAQ and the Girl Scouts of the USA, are indicative of our broad scope of expertise and ability to effectively advocate on myriad issues. It’s already been a busy year, and it’s only going to get busier for us and our clients. Over the coming months, and with an unusually complex lame duck session on the horizon, we anticipate steady activity and success.”

Additional federal lobbying numbers of note:

- 2011 Total lobbying revenue: $22,055,000
- 2011 First quarter lobbying revenue: $5,255,000
- 2012 First quarter lobbying revenue: $5,590,000

The numbers for the first quarter of 2012 will be filed on April 20 as part of the quarterly filing requirements under the federal Lobbying Disclosure Act.
