

Brownstein Employees Spread Valentine's Day Cheer in Local Communities

Feb 14, 2019

Employees across Brownstein's offices got into the Valentine's Day spirit this month, gathering to create hundreds of valentines for people in need. Here are the many ways our employees helped from the heart:

- In Denver, volunteers made cards for patients at Rocky Mountain Hospital for Children and clients of CHARG Resource Center and Volunteers of America's Meals on Wheels program. A group of Karma volunteers also delivered valentines to children at the hospital.
- The Las Vegas Karma volunteers made cards and delivered them to children at Clark County's Department of Family Services emergency shelter, Child Haven, which houses abused and neglected children. An additional group decorated Valentine's Day cookies with the kids.
- Our Los Angeles Karma team colored, cut and pasted together creative valentines that were distributed to patients at Children's Hospital Los Angeles.
- Our Reno office created cards with stickers for children at Renown Children's Hospital.
- In Santa Barbara, employees made valentines for Santa Barbara Meals on Wheels recipients.

Throughout the year, our employees participate in Karma Projects, designed to give our employees, clients, family and friends an opportunity to give back to the communities where we work and live.
