Sen. Warner Proposes Reforms Aimed at Social Media Companies

Sep 20, 2018

Client Alert

Brownstein Client Alert, September 20, 2018

In the wake of recent congressional hearings on Russia's use of social media to interfere in U.S. elections, the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence Vice Chairman, Sen. Mark Warner (D-VA), authored a draft white paper proposing several policy changes on the use and oversight of social media platforms. Some of Warner's proposals are relatively noncontroversial, while others will likely cause angst among social media platform providers. This client alert briefly summarizes the main takeaways from Sen. Warner's thought-provoking document and highlights the ones most likely to generate further discussion on Capitol Hill.
