Nov 03, 2017

Elizabeth Gore, Marc Lampkin and Al Mottur, all members of Brownstein Hyatt Farber Schreck's Government Relations practice, were listed among the most influential lobbyists in D.C. by The Hill.

In its 2017 Top Lobbyist List, the publication described Brownstein's team as a "potent trio" leading the firm's public policy and lobbying team. With their leadership, "the team at Brownstein has rocketed into the stratosphere, growing the firm's client base and revenue," according to The Hill.

Elizabeth Gore chairs Brownstein's Government Relations Department and has more than 20 years of experience in politics and advocacy. This is the first time Elizabeth has been featured on The Hill's Top Lobbyist List since joining the firm. She is a sought-after Democratic strategist with a long career of helping clients navigate Capitol Hill and federal agencies. Elizabeth previously served as chief of staff and legislative director for a U.S. senator, has worked extensively in the House and the Clinton White House and helped steer many political campaigns. Elizabeth is a featured blogger for the Huffington Post and has appeared on Fox News and MSNBC.

Marc Lampkin, managing partner of Brownstein's Washington, D.C., office and a member of the firm's Executive Committee, has been included in The Hill's list since 2011. A leading Republican lobbyist and seasoned strategist, Marc brings veteran campaign, public policy and legislative strategy experience to his clients. He has a unique understanding of all aspects of policy development, public opinion, communications and the legislative process—and how they influence and impact each other. Marc's years on Capitol Hill, his extensive relationships with administration officials and staffers on both sides of the aisle, at policy think tanks, trade associations and with the media have led to unofficial advisor roles for numerous members of Congress, cabinet officials and other leading Washington policymakers.

Al Mottur is recognized in Washington as a top Democratic strategist and lobbyist and has also been included in The Hill's list since 2011. Al is well-known for his extensive experience in telecommunications policy in Congress and at the Federal Communications Commission. He has helped numerous major corporations develop and execute complex public policy advocacy strategies in Congress and in many executive branch agencies, including the FCC, the FTC and the Department of Agriculture.
